DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 6-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kahle. Kahle discloses all of the subject matter as set forth in the claims and is identical to the invention as broadly recited. Some of the claimed elements clearly disclosed by the reference are: a method and system for individually labeling a compact disk at the time digital information is recorded. In regard to claim 9, the examiner submits that Kahle inherently performs statistical comparative analysis in order for his invention to function. Further, Kahle inherently discloses a destructible label. Applicant's attention is directed to column five (5), lines 27-38. However Kahle lacks the disclosure of a base plate in cooperation with a pestle to apply the label to the disk. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a base plate and pestle arrangement, since applicant has not disclosed that the use of this combination solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose. Webster's dictionary defines pestle as "any of various devices for pounding, stamping or pressing". Hence the examiner submits that it appears the invention would perform equally well with any known equivalent elements.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11/9/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

4. In response to applicant's argument that Kahle does not specifically recite a pestle, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Further, the examiner still submits it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a base plate and pestle arrangement, since applicant has not disclosed that the use of this combination solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose. The purposes stated by applicant are identical to the goal of the Kahle device which is to have accurate alignment between the elements. Also in view of Webster's dictionary definition of pestle the examiner submits that it appears the invention would perform equally well with any known equivalent elements.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
